

Aerco on the right track

Welcome to the launch issue of Rail & Transit news from Aerco.

This bi-monthly newsletter is designed to bring all the very latest product developments and news straight into your inbox.

With long-term industry forecasts predicting a doubling in demand for rail transport over the next 15 to 20 years, there is a lot of attention focused on accommodating the additional traffic on busy routes. In order to achieve this demand it is safe to say that we will need innovative approaches from train operators, infrastructure managers, suppliers and authorities alike.

Here at Aerco we understand the pressures and dynamics of this industry and have built our reputation over many years by stocking and distributing electronic, electrical and electro-mechanical components not just to the rail and mass transit sectors but also aerospace, defence, medical and industrial markets. We are affiliated to the RIA (Railway Industry Association), and our comprehensive product range covers all sectors including vehicles/rolling stock and infrastructure (trackside, signalling, communications and information systems).

With this growing rail industry and increased infrastructure development surrounding the 2012 Olympics we are enhancing our commitment by extending the product ranges we support and providing increased stock holdings to serve our customers. We also offer design support services, support for prototyping and long-term price agreements.
